

Award winning author, columnist and professor...

SAMUEL G. FREEDMAN

Please join the Department of Media, Film & Journalism Studies and the Estlow International Center for Journalism & New Media as we present:

“Venerable Values, Modern Means: Shoeleather Journalism in the Digital Era”

Wednesday, April 3, 2013

2:00 - 3:50 p.m.

University of Denver | Morgridge College of Education

Samuel G. Freedman is a columnist for The New York Times and a professor at the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism. He is the author of six acclaimed books, four of which have been New York Times Notable Books of the Year. Freedman also has written frequently for USA TODAY, New York Magazine, Rolling Stone, The Jerusalem Post, Tablet, The Forward, and Salon.com. His most recent book, Who She Was: My Search for My Mother's Life, was published in 2005.

Free for students, faculty and staff.
RSVP required at www.estlow.org

Sponsored by:

UNIVERSITY of DENVER

ARTS, HUMANITIES
& SOCIAL SCIENCES
Department of Media,
Film & Journalism Studies